Celebrating 150 Years of Supporting Local Districts Helping Those in Need

January 22 - 25, 2019 • The Albany Marriott Hotel • Albany, New York

Opening Address

Our conference will begin with tales from our past and lessons learned for the journeys ahead. Delving deep into our archives, we explored our origins, identified the movers and shakers, and ultimately uncovered the story of how public welfare and child protective services evolved in our state. At one time, religious organizations and charities were the only places, aside from family, to turn to for help. Gradually, government stepped in, with public welfare officers serving in towns, villages, cities, and counties. In the 1850s, local officials operating welfare programs gathered together to address the needs of vulnerable New Yorkers and formally organized as an association in 1869. Today, 150 years later, we can reflect on the history of the New York Public Welfare Association and celebrate how far we have come.
